

COSSACKS ORDERED TO SHOOT WHERE SLIGHTEST OPPOSITION IS SHOWN

"More Political Malcontents You Kill, the Higher Will be the Czar's Estimate of Your Services"

SERIOUS MUTINY AT SCHUSSELBURG FORTRESS

Marines and Sailors at St. Petersburg Refuse to Obey Orders to Go to Kronstadt--Immediate Release of All Political Prisoners Demanded.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 8, via Eydtkuhnen, Dec. 9.—The first act of General Maximovitch, former governor general of Warsaw, who has been appointed successor of General Sakharoff to crush out the peasant uprising, has been to issue the following order to the Cossacks under his command:

"Do not use the knout on malcontents, but shoot wherever you meet with the slightest opposition. Show the rebel dogs you are not economical with cartridges. The more political malcontents you kill the higher will be the czar's estimate of your services. Take care that your actions create a good impression on the government."

The order is bound to result in awful slaughter, as the peasants have been goaded into a fury by the notice to the Cossacks. There are 50,000 armed peasants in Maximovitch's district, and there is no doubt they will defend themselves. The result is bound to be severe fighting and awful slaughter unless the czar encounters Maximovitch's orders.

Maximovitch was given his new appointment to afford him an opportunity to redeem himself for his cowardly conduct during the time he was governor general. For months he was afraid to venture on the streets of Warsaw fearing he would be assassinated.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 8, via Eydtkuhnen, Dec. 9.—The marines and sailors here have mutinied and refused to obey orders to go to Kronstadt. One of the sailors voiced the resistance of his fellows. In addressing Admiral Niedermiller he said:

"You should be drowned in our blood. You want to herd us together so that you can repeat the Sevastopol massacre. We refuse to obey."

The sailors took refuge in their barracks, which have been surrounded by troops.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 8, via Eydtkuhnen, Dec. 9.—A serious mutiny has occurred at Schusselburg fortress, known as the Russian bastille located on an island in the Neva river, 20 miles east of St. Petersburg. The troops there are demanding the immediate release of all political prisoners and threaten to carry the fortress by assault.

Schusselburg fortress for the past 19 years has been the torture house of Russia for political offenders. Many dungeons in which captives are confined are below high water level of the Neva river and the prisoners are half drowned when the tide rises. Medieval tortures are inflicted upon prisoners and many of them have been driven insane as the result of their suffering.

The food of the prisoners in the fortress consists only of bread raw cabbage and water. The government never grants permission for anyone to enter the prison which conceals so many frightful secrets as did the French bastille. A few prisoners were released in accordance with the amnesty proclaimed by the czar, but those who were allowed to go were mostly men who had spent at least fifteen years in the fortress and who now, broken in health and spirit, are no longer capable of being dangerous conspirators.

Among the prisoners held in the fortress is the assassin of former minister of the interior Von Plehve.

HENRY M. WHITNEY

His Advocacy of Reciprocity and Controversy With President Roosevelt.

Henry M. Whitney of Boston, who has become involved in a controversy with President Roosevelt in connection with the question of reciprocity, is a brother of the late William C. Whitney, secretary of the navy under President Cleveland. He was the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of Massachusetts in the recent campaign and ran ahead of his ticket. Mr. Whitney has for years been conspicuous in his advocacy of the policy of reciprocity, especially reciprocity with Canada. This issue cut quite a figure in the recent campaign in the old Bay State, and while Curtis Guild, Jr., the Republican candidate for governor, who favors conservative revision of the tariff, was elected by about 23,000 plurality, his running mate on the ticket et, Eben S. Draper, received less than 2,000 plurality on the face of the returns. The Democrats decided to contest his election and endeavor to have their candidate, Mr. Whitney, seated.

HENRY M. WHITNEY.

About a year and a half ago Mr. Whitney was empowered by a mass meeting in Faneuil hall to appoint a committee of 100 to lead a fight for reciprocity with Canada. Thirty thousand business men of Massachusetts signed resolutions in favor of the reciprocity propaganda. Later Mr. Whitney headed a delegation which appeared before President Roosevelt at Washington. In the recent campaign he referred to Mr. Roosevelt's remarks on this occasion and the president has said that Mr. Whitney's statements misrepresented him.

Mr. Whitney was born in Conway, Mass., in 1841. He was educated in the public schools of Conway and at the Williston academy at Easthampton. He began his business career in a bank, engaged afterward in the shipping business and in 1889 went into rapid transit operations in Boston. He introduced electric traction and was instrumental in the consolidation of Boston's traction lines into one system. He is now identified with numerous large corporate interests in New England. Mr. Whitney is married and has several children. Thomas W. Lawson in speaking of the Massachusetts legislature in Everybody's Magazine said in a recent article that Mr. Whitney "had the reputation of carrying that body in his waistcoat pocket."

Dr. H. F. Brooks, former principal of a prominent (Pa.) public school, was convicted in London, England, on charge of embezzlement.

SENATE

Will Take No Action on Death of Mitchell of Oregon.

Washington, Dec. 9.—The Senate finds itself in an embarrassing position because of the death of Senator Mitchell of Oregon. A meeting was today called to discuss the matter of appointing a committee to attend the funeral. At the time of his death Mitchell was under conviction of the crime against the federal statutes, and had been sentenced to imprisonment and fine. Many senators are willing to forget the verdict and accord the senator customary honors, but others feel the dignity and honor of the Senate would be impaired should members be called on to deliver eulogies on one who died while in the hands of the law.

Today's conference of senators decided to take no action on Mr. Mitchell's death.

MRS. ROGERS' BURIAL AT HOOSIC FALLS, N. Y.

Interment Will Be Made in St. Mary's Cemetery--Died Without a Tremor.

Windsor, Vt., Dec. 9.—The news that the hanging of Mary Rogers on Friday had been bungled has sent a thrill of horror through the state. It is learned from eye witnesses that the rope had not been tested. When the drop came the rope stretched so the woman's feet reached the floor. Several deputy sheriffs on the scaffold leaped forward and seized the rope, dragged the woman clear off the floor and there held her, taking turns relieving each other for 14 long minutes, until the woman's life was strangled out of her. Officials made efforts to prevent the bungle from becoming known.

Windsor, Vt., Dec. 9.—The remains of Mrs. Mary Mabel Rogers, who was hanged here for the murder of her husband, Marcus Rogers, at Bennington in August, 1902, were sent to Hoosic Falls, N. Y., where Mrs. Rogers' mother resides. Interment will be at St. Mary's cemetery, in that town just before her execution. Mrs. Rogers removed her eyeglasses and, passing them to one of the deputies, said: "These are for my sister. Please see that she gets them." There were no sensational incidents in connection with the hanging. Although the woman was not officially pronounced dead until 14 minutes and 30 seconds after the trap was sprung, she evidently suffered no pain. Her neck was broken at the second cervical vertebra and she lost consciousness instantly. The drop fell. Mrs. Rogers faced death without a tremor and without a word.

HOLIDAY TRADE IS VERY BRISK

Railway Business Continues to be Remarkably Heavy--Bradstreet's Weekly Review.

New York, Dec. 9.—Bradstreet's says: Holiday trade began earlier than usual, promising to break all records, but retail trade in seasonal goods, reflecting irregular weather, fluctuates in volume. Wholesale trade notes seasonal quietness as the stock taking period approaches, but spring sales continue encouraging. Industries remain active, iron and steel and building in all its branches activity is still a feature. The recent large advance in cotton and talk of 15 cents for the balance of the crop is a disturbing element in future business. Wool is dull and fancy fleeces rather easier on seasonable quiet in that line, but primary markets are still strong, and good reports come from clothing trades. Railway business continues remarkably heavy and gross receipts for November promise an increase of about 9 per cent over last year.

OVER THE WIRE

By ROSE ELLEN THOMAS

Copyright, 1935, by K. A. Whitehead

When Jim Lee, the village carpenter and a widower, died, people felt sorry for his daughter Molly and wondered how she would get along. They did more for a wonder. A number of them so interested themselves that she was made telephone operator at Sandville with a good weekly salary. She made her home with a neighbor, and things went on very well with her.

Molly Lee was a girl of twenty, and if she hadn't married before her father's death it was not because of the lack of opportunity. Why she didn't was her own affair. Why she attended strictly to business afterward and had no beaux was also her own affair, but the villagers winked and nodded to each other and said it would come around by and by.

At Stapleton, twenty-eight miles away, James Williams opened a store about the time Mr. Lee died. He had much telephoning to do in various directions, and he called up Sandville at least once a day. When he heard the new voice over the telephone he heard the sound of it. The more he heard of it the better he liked it.

As he was a bachelor and as he was charged with having an eye open for

"Name is Williams of Stapleton," he answered.

"Well, what of that?"

"I—I have done considerable telephoning to this office during the past year."

"And have you got any complaints to make?"

"No."

"Then what?"

"I thought—That is, I—I—"

"Have you been drinking, sir?" demanded the old maid in a voice full of carpet tacks and pounded glass.

"N-n-n-o!" stammered Mr. Williams after a great effort.

"Then you are going to have paresis and had best consult a doctor!"

Mr. Williams withdrew and went over and sat down in the shade of the grocery steps. A bottled dog came along and tried to make friends with him, but he would not respond. One of the hogs sauntering about the village streets approached and grunted amiably, but was kicked at in response. The groceryman came out and, rubbing his hands together, observed that he had just laid in a new stock of crackers and herring, but the bachelor never even thanked him for calling his attention to the fact.

By and by, when the cold chill of disappointment had passed away, he got up and walked to the depot and took the train for home. His romance had been shattered and buried, and he felt small and mean over it. There was only one thing left to wonder over. How on earth could that old maid have disguised her voice as she had when talking with him? He thought over the matter for two or three days and then dismissed it.

During the next two weeks the merchant had considerable telephoning to do, but none of it was in the direction of Sandville. Not once was that office called up, and there was a saving of at least $3 on tolls. Then there came a day that the office had to be called up, and as the bachelor took down the trumpet he made up his mind that if it was possible to do so he would give that old maid a rap.

"Yes, this is Sandville," came the answer in a voice that made him jump. It was the clear, sweet voice he had been accustomed to.

"I want"—he began and then stopped.

"Yes?"

"I want Jackson's dry goods store after awhile, but just now I want something else."

"What is it?"

"Have—have you got two voices?"

"Why, of course not. What a funny question!"

"Are there two of you, then?"

"No; I'm all alone here."

"Well, I'll be jiggered!" he exclaimed to himself, but he heard a giggle from the other end of the line, and the same voice he liked to hear said:

"Shall I call up the store now?"

"Not yet, say, I was down at Sandville the other day."

"Yes?"

"I called at the telephone office."

"Did you?"

"And you wanted to know if I had been drinking."

"Oh, Mr. Williams!"

"And when I said no you advised me to consult a doctor for paresis."

"Did she say that? I'm sorry. I was ill for a week and had to get Miss Andrews to take my place, and she is pretty short with people."

"And it wasn't you in the office that day?"

"Of course not."

"Then—then—"

"Then you want the store?"

"Not by a jugful! I want you, and I shall be down on the afternoon train!"

"But, Mr. Williams—"

But Mr. Williams was hurrying to the depot to catch the train and an hour later was in Sandville. Three months later he got what he came for, and everybody says it was a good match.

"Rabbiting It In."

When Mrs. Morse after a lapse of thirty years met her old schoolmate, Mrs. Graham, in the guise of a summer visitor to Aldersfield she made up her mind to one thing—Lydia Graham's measure of worldly prosperity had been large, but not for one moment would Mary Ann Morse allow her to feel "set up."

It was with the intention of reducing any possible pride that might be lurking behind Lydia Graham's placid countenance that Mrs. Morse held her off at arm's length when the first affectionate greeting had been exchanged.

"How fat you've grown, Lyddy!" said Mary Ann Morse, holding her little figure erect as a small stiff tree.

Mrs. Graham smiled contentedly, and Mrs. Morse saw that her thrust had done no harm.

"And yet—and yet you're wrinkled in spite of it!" said this determined old friend. And then she gave Lydia Graham's flushed cheeks a consoling kiss.

A Ghost Story.

The power of imagination is strongly illustrated in the following ghost story: One of the most famous murder cases in Australia was discovered by the ghost of the murdered man sitting on the rail of a dam (Australian for horse pond) into which his body had been thrown. Numerous people saw it, and the crime was only brought home. Years after a doped man making his confession said that he invented the ghost. He witnessed the crime, but was threatened with death if he divulged it, as he was told, and the only way he saw out of the impasse was to affect to see the ghost where the body would be found. As soon as he tried the story, such a number of people believed that he was telling the truth that such dimensions were taken and the murderer brought to justice.

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption."

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

At the faintest suspicion of consumption get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular doses.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is.

Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

Scott's Emulsion is made in the United States.

Reforms of the Municipal Code.

The greater portion of the time of the conference of fifty mayors and mayors-elect held in Cleveland at the invitation of Mayor Johnson of that city was taken up in a discussion of the municipal code, which was passed in spite of protests from all over the state, and was made to embody the ideas of Boss Cox as to municipal government. The code was opposed by the Democrats in the legislature, by the entire Democratic press of the state, by the people generally and by the students of municipal government who hoped to see Ohio start right in taking up a reform necessitated by the condition of a municipal law owing to court decisions. At the municipal elections following the enactment of the code the appeal was made to the voters of most of the cities to elect Republicans to office in order to place the inauguration of the code in the hands of its friends. Events, however, show that the opponents of the code were justified in their opposition, for the measure as a governing instrument has proved unsatisfactory, has been prolific in scandalous abuses, and has increased the cost of municipal government without adequate return. Now nearly all the mayors-elect in conference go on record in favor of changes in the law that will provide for a simpler and more honest form of municipal government. The mayors effected an organization whose purpose is that here outlined. The president of the organization who is the mayor-elect of Youngstown, was authorized to appoint a committee of seven including himself to undertake the work of gathering data as to necessary changes in the municipal code, the same to be eventually presented to the general assembly which will assemble next month and accompany it with the recommendation of the Mayors' association that it be favorably acted upon. The legislature that will assemble in Columbus the first of the year will be one of a totally different character from that which enacted the Cox code and which in so doing defied the people of Ohio, and will, therefore, listen to appeals.

Trouble for Roosevelt.

There is a big row in high Republican circles at Washington over the stand taken by President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Cortelyou regarding the appointment of Second and Third-class Postmasters. The new policy of the President and his Postmaster General is to keep in office all such Postmasters as have given satisfaction. This is causing a great flurry among Republican Congressmen and Senators who want to claim the right to name the Postmasters of their districts. If the old Postmasters are all to be kept in office the political influence of Congressmen will be largely wiped out, and this new departure of Mr. Roosevelt is bound to involve him in great trouble with his party leaders. The Washington correspondent of a Chicago Republican paper says:

"The news of the new policy traveled through the capitol with characteristic speed and during the closing hours of the session constituted the subject of excited discussion among

Monday's Special Election.

On Monday the people of Newark are to vote on the proposition to issue $200,000 additional bonds for the construction of city waterworks. Judging from the limited extent of the interest that seems to be manifested, there does not appear to be a prospect of a large vote on the question. It was understood at the outset of the proposition that it would be voted on at the general election. But the necessary legal effort to have the vote taken at the general election was not made by the Council, and when this was discovered it was too late to get the ordinance through in the time prescribed by law for such submission of the proposition.

But the people should turn out and vote on the question on Monday in sufficient numbers to give a fair expression on the subject. It will require a two-thirds vote in favor of the proposition to carry it. The larger the vote polled the better will be the people's expression of their decision.

The question has been raised as to the legal power of the city to issue $200,000 more bonds on account of a proviso in the law limiting the total bond issue of a city to 8 per cent of the duplicate valuation. For this reason The Advocate printed yesterday the decision of the Circuit Court at Tiffin on the 8 per cent limitation. The decision was printed without comment in order that the people might form their own conclusions on the question and vote according to their best judgment.

Those in favor of the proposition urge that the sum of $300,000, which the city has on hand, is not sufficient to build the kind of a waterworks system that was decided upon by the Board of Public Service, and for that reason the additional bond issue is a necessity to complete the plant.

Among the reasons urged by the opponents of the proposition is that the city has not the legal power to issue $200,000 more bonds, because it exceeds the 8 per cent limitation, and that therefore the vote in its favor is futile.

Railroad Official—No, not one of the injured trainmen is dead enough to blame it on yet.—New York Weekly.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[Special Correspondence.]

Congress will be asked to make some provision at its coming session for government clerks who have grown old in the service and who can no longer perform their work satisfactorily. Men and women, many of them old soldiers or widows of veterans, are unable to do the work assigned them, yet are carried on the rolls at the salaries they received when competent. To discharge these clerks would be equivalent to sending them to the poorhouse. This has prevented drastic action in the past.

The aged clerks are now referred to as "dead wood," and the younger clerks are demanding promotion. The Keep commission, which is to make recommendations for placing the departments on a "business basis," is expected to advocate radical measures. The president time and again has said the departments need new blood, men and women with push and energy.

Horses to Wear Earrings.

The 500 "official" horses, as they are called here, are to have their ears bored and will wear rings. The horses belong to the different departments, and many are so much alike that it has been found necessary to have some identification mark. It was first suggested that tags be put on the bridle, but this was not considered satisfactory.

The ring scheme then was adopted. When the plan is put into force the animals will have their ears bored, the holes to be about the diameter of a lead pencil. The rings will carry tags, and promoters of the scheme say that the ring will be something flashy if not expensive.

Growth of the Postal Service.

The auditor reports that for the year ended June 30 the revenues of the postal service were $152,826,583 and the expenditures $167,399,169. The receipts were seven times greater than thirty-three years ago and eighteen times greater than in 1880. The rural free delivery has increased from 148 carriers in 1898 to 32,055 in 1905 and the cost from $50,000 to $20,819,844.

Napoleon's Furniture in America.

When he returned to Washington recently Ambassador von Sternburg brought a complete suit of drawing room furniture that had adorned the rooms occupied by Napoleon in Leipzig. These treasures were bequeathed to the ambassador by a relative whose grandfather had owned the place where the Corsican elected to abide. The furniture is ancient Flemish, and in the tapestry are woven mythological designs. The frames bear a gold design. A desk at which Napoleon wrote vigorous messages is part of the legacy, and a rug of deep yellow velvet, with pale blue and pink flowers, on which the warrior paced up and down, is spread for the ambassador's guests to admire.

Champ Clark on Politics.

Champ Clark, philosopher, lecturer, representative, paid his respects to the president the other day and then talked politics to the newspaper men. The Missouri congressman was positive that if the November elections had been general the Democrats would have swept the country and elected the house. "Do you know," he said, "that of the 116 years this country has had party government the Democrats have controlled fifty-six years, the Republicans fifty-six years and John Quincy Adams four years? What was he? Blamed if I know. I think he was the original mumpkin of this country. The fact is that the people even up things politically in the course of time. Another hundred years will find about the same division of time."

Uncle Sam's Buildings.

James Knox Taylor, supervising architect of the treasury department, has submitted to Secretary Shaw his annual report for the fiscal year, which ended June 30. The report of Mr. Taylor shows that during the year twenty-nine new buildings and sixteen extensions to old buildings were completed and occupied. Contracts were entered into for the construction of fifty-nine new buildings, which, added to those which were started before the commencement of the year, makes eighty-four structures in the course of erection.

Classified with reference to condition, the report shows that there are 370 public buildings, exclusive of marine hospitals and quarantine stations, completed and occupied. These, added to the twenty-eight completed during the past fiscal year, make 403 public buildings now occupied by Uncle Sam. There are 531 completed and provided for.

Heat Kills Sequoias.

There will be no sequoias planted in Washington. George H. Brown, landscape gardener of the capitol, said recently:

"Efforts to acclimatize the California sequoias in this latitude have failed repeatedly. We have tried on three different occasions several years apart to make them grow here, and we have failed. The agricultural department has tried them twice and failed, and so has the British embassy. Therefore I can say for Colonel Bromwell and the division of public buildings and grounds that no further efforts will be made to introduce them in this city."
"Contrary to the general supposition, it is not the cold winters that kill them, but the hot summers. They have been planted in Rochester, N. Y., with success, and the last time I visited that city I saw two flourishing young trees. The country where they thrive in California is not so hot in summer as it is here and likewise considerably milder in winter. The sequoias seem, however, to acclimatize themselves rapidly to the cold of the northeastern states, but they cannot stand the heat of the Washington summers."

CARL SCHOFIELD.

WOMAN AND FASHION

New Jacket Design.

The new jackets are being shown now, some of them being out of the beaten track and very smart. Among these the plaited styles seem to be the favorite, and surely there has never been a style that is so easily handled by the home dressmaker. The jacket proper is very plain, made with seams in front and back extending to the shoulder. This is not only a newer cut, but it is a style easier fitted than the dart coats. After the coat is fitted one has only to apply the plait over the seam and the garment is practically finished. The collar may or may not be used, just as one desires. The sleeve is finished with a box plait also and the whole "makeup" of the coat is generally good. Any woman can make such a coat as this, and it will be a good fitting one too. The shops are full of short lengths now that can be bought very reasonably and are just the thing for separate jackets. This model may be used as the coat to a suit, and any skirt will go nicely with it. Covert cloth, silk or any coat material may be used.

The Season's Combs.

In the hair this winter women will wear two combs in the back, the lower one smaller than the upper, and both jeweled at the top. These will be varied by the old colonial type of comb for a different style of coiffure, and it is more than probable that the colonial comb will share favor with its twin sister, the Spanish comb, high and broad, and intended to be used effectively in draping the mantilla upon the head. As mantles will be among the smart winter styles, the Spanish comb will be practically inevitable, although as yet not in vogue.

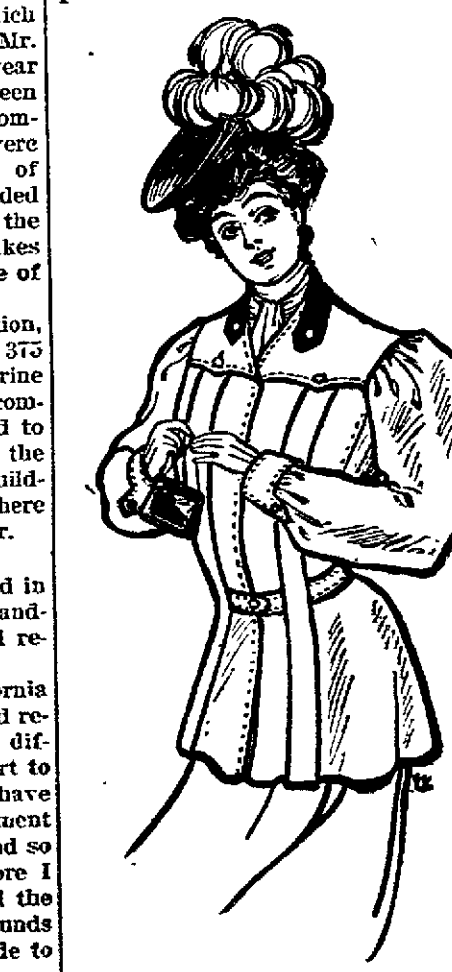

Sashes For Young Persons.

Little girls and big are to wear sashes this winter. Knots are to be large and small, tight and loose. They may be worn at the side as well as in the back, and the color may be whatever its owner chooses.

The revival of this white dresses for older girls is probably somewhat responsible for the resurrection of sashes so long banished for all but the very small, but the fashion is a pretty and becoming one that should be encouraged.

A Useful Garment.

In spite of the frills and furbelows of the French confection, the simple dressing sack for general usefulness continues to hold its own. Here is one which is very neat in appearance and quite the thing for general wear. It is designed for the home sewer and the pattern has been made as simple as possible. Elderdown is excellent for cold weather wear, but if a more attractive fabric is preferred, cashmere, silk or French flannel may serve. The edges are shown faced with a dotted silk and a contrast offered here believes the absolute plainness of the garment. The broad collar is of graceful shape and rolls back prettily from the neck. The sleeves are loose at the wrist, this style being best suited to the needs of such a jacket. In the medium size three yards of thirty-six inch material are needed.

UTICA FARMERS HOLD INSTITUTE

INTERESTING AND HELPFUL TALKS GIVEN BY NUMBER OF SPEAKERS.

Meeting Closes Saturday at Utica With Election of Officers for the Year.

Utica, O., Dec. 9.—The Farmers' Institute opened in the town hall on Friday, with prayer by Mr. Levi Knowlton. Hon. Lee A. Bell, chairman, in calling the meeting to order said among other things that notwithstanding the prosperous times, the farmer is not now on top, for the time was when he sold his wheat for $1.50 per bushel and paid less for harvest hands than he does now when he sells at 80 cents a bushel; the same is true of corn, hays, etc.

Prof. Roubush of Clermont county, gave a very interesting and helpful talk on Alfalfa and Prof. McIntire spoke on the subject, "The Value and Care of Blue Grass." W. A. Hervey of Utica, gave a very profitable talk on the "Clover Midge." But the subject of "Good Roads" seemed to strike the most popular chord. In the absence of A. D. Seward, the speaker on this subject, the president called out the following speakers, who responded enthusiastically and earnestly to the subject: Levi Knowlton, O. C. Larason, Rev. Mr. Loar and Prof. McIntire. Miss Bone gave a recitation on the old and the new ways of farming, which was both pleasing and instructive. The music of the institute is being rendered by a Columbus quartet, the Williamson sisters. Messrs. Bone and Shepherd were appointed to award the prizes on the corn exhibit.

The institute will close its session Saturday, when the officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

DR. SHEPARDSON

Who Died in Honolulu, Had Been in Poor Health Some Time—Letter Written Nov. 21.

The Advocate received from Honolulu, H. I., Saturday morning a letter written by Dr. Daniel Shepardson four days before his death. The letter says in part:

"Our plans have been somewhat changed owing to the fact that I have not recovered my usual strength as rapidly as I had hoped. We shall not pick up and leave for New Zealand on the 29th as I recently wrote you, but shall remain indefinitely in Honolulu. My third letter to the Advocate from Hawaii I will try to get to you before long. I have not been at all well the last month, and have been so crowded with other matters that I could not write the letters for the Advocate. They will come on later. I will not disappoint you. You may continue to send me the paper as long as we are here."

This note was written November 21. Four days later Dr. Shepardson died.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. A ROLLER POLO LEAGUE PROPOSED

OPENING OF SKATING RINK IN THIS CITY WILL GIVE AN OPPORTUNITY

For Revival of the Sport—Proposed Circuit to Include Several Towns.

Now that Newark and Zanesville are to have up to date roller skating rinks, a proposition is on foot to form a roller polo league. It is suggested that a circuit be formed including Newark, Zanesville, Coshocton, Canton, Akron, Mansfield and Massillon. Roller polo is one of the finest of indoor sports. It gives free play for all the skill and agility of the athletes and furnishes the spectators with plenty of excitement.

Polo is practically unknown in this city. It has been so long since Newark has had a roller rink that the lovers of skating will want to fully satiate their desire for this sport before entering heartily into any plans for polo and it may be that the candidates will be none the worse for a little practice before seriously thinking of entering a game where none but the most expert skaters have a chance to escape without hard knocks. Referring to this matter one of the Zanesville papers says: In the past Zanesville has boasted of some very expert roller skaters and it is believed that the city still has a few masters of the art, but when the new Elite rink is thrown open to the public the class of beginners will undoubtedly be large. It is expected that a meeting will be called at an early date at some one of the above-mentioned cities for the purpose of discussing plans for forming a roller polo league.

DENISON 'VARSITY WON FROM NEWARK

Game Was Fast and Both Teams Showed Up Well in First Game of Season.

Granville, O., Dec. 9.—In the first basketball game of the season here, the Denison 'Varsity team defeated the Newark High school team in an excellent exhibition, the score being 46 to 15. The High school boys played fast, but were outclassed and Denison played much faster. The 'Varsity men had the advantage of being familiar with the floor and baskets. For the Denison team, Livingston was easily the star. He scored the majority of the points for his team and missed but few baskets. The team is the fastest yet turned out by Denison and they will make other college teams "go some" this winter. Harry Pine and Lee Moore, both last year's stars on the Newark High school team, were in the game and played good ball.

Prof. Bookman of Newark, refereed the game and Prof. Tait of Newark and Shoop of Denison were timekeepers and Kibler was scorer. The halves were 20 and 15 minutes. The lineup:

Denison (46)—Shoop, rf; Pine lf; Livingston, c; Cole and Moore rg; Weber (C), lf.

Newark (15)—Bell, rf; Beecher (C), lf; Prior, c; McFarland, rg; Lewis and State lg.

DAY NURSERY

Two Little Children Whose Mother is Dead Will be First to be Admitted.

Mrs. George Webb, whose efforts the establishment of the King's Daughters' Day Nursery is due, has reported the first case to the nursery which will result in the entrance on Monday of two motherless children of this city, to the care of the matron.

The case in question is a very interesting one and is indeed pathetic. The mother of the children, whose ages are four and seven years, is dead and the father in his efforts to support them, is kept busy, so that it is impossible for them to receive the proper home care. They have been up to the present, in care of and associating with a Hungarian family of this city and the conditions are reported to be terrible among these people. The King's Daughters have received permission to care for the children and after the usual medical examination they will be admitted.

DIVORCE GRANTED MRS. WM. G. TIGHT

WIFE OF COLLEGE PRESIDENT GETS CUSTODY OF THREE CHILDREN.

The divorce case of Mrs. Arabella Tight of Granville, against Dr. William G. Tight, formerly a member of the faculty of Denison university, Granville, now president of the University of New Mexico, at Albuquerque, was heard before Probate Judge W. A. Irvine Friday evening. The court found that the defendant had been wilfully absent from the plaintiff for three years, and that he had been guilty of gross neglect of duty. He decreed that the marriage relations existing between the plaintiff and the defendant be set aside and annulled. It was ordered that the custody, education and care of the children, Dexter J. Tight, aged 15 years; Minnie G. Tight, aged 13, and Harriet A. Tight, aged 8, be given to Mrs. Tight. The defendant was enjoined from interfering with or disturbing the plaintiff in the custody, education and care of the children until the further order of the court, but the order of injunction is not to deprive the defendant from the right to visit the children at reasonable times and places, which he is permitted to do.

It was further ordered that the defendant pay to Mrs. Tight monthly on or before the 10th of each month, beginning December 10, the sum of $65, until the son, Dexter, arrives at the age of majority; that if Dexter dies before that time then after his death and until the daughter, Minnie G., arrives at the age of majority, the defendant is ordered to pay the plaintiff monthly $50; that after the majority of Dexter or in case he should die before the majority of Minnie, then after the majority of Minnie or on her death before her majority, he is ordered to pay monthly the sum of $35 until the majority or at her death if she dies before the majority of her daughter, Harriet A., and after the majority or decease of all the children, he is ordered to pay the plaintiff during her life or until her marriage monthly, the sum of $30. The re-marriage of the plaintiff before any of all of the children become of age, shall not result in any deduction from the above figures, but in that event the alimony shall entirely cease when the children all become of age or die before they become of age.

It is ordered by the court that in case any of the above sums remain unpaid for twenty days after they become payable that an execution issue therefor against the defendant in favor of the plaintiff. It is also ordered that the defendant pay the costs of this suit and in default of the payment thereof monthly twenty days from this date that execution issue therefor. SKATING PARK

Y. M. C. A. Trustees are Thinking of Making One on Athletic Field, Eleventh Street.

The Board of Trustees of the Y. M. C. A. at their regular monthly meeting Friday night, took under consideration the proposition to transform the athletic field on Eleventh street into an ice park for the use of skaters during the coming skating season.

The matter will certainly be of great interest to the young people of the city, who enjoy this popular winter sport, especially as Newark has no good skating park. The canal, which has been used for this purpose in the past is dangerous and the class of persons patronizing the Y. M. C. A. park would be much more select and enjoyable.

The proposed skating park would be constructed 100 feet long and 90 feet wide with an average depth of 9 inches of ice. If constructed, it will be open on afternoons and nights, being lighted at night by an electric arc lamp on a post in the center of the park.

The proposition is certainly a nice one and it is hoped that it will be carried out. A number of other important matters were brought up and considered, and a number of interesting reports were heard from the various committees.

CRITICISE PRESIDENT

MEN HOLD AN INDIGNATION
MEETING IN WASHINGTON

For Cutting Isthmian Appropriation Five and Half Millions is Made Plain.

Washington, Dec. 9.—The closing of the debate on the Panama appropriation disclosed a state of earnestness and dissatisfaction to President Roosevelt and his cabinet that was little short of remarkable. The house reassembled at 10 o'clock on Thursday for an impromptu conference that might be described accurately as an indignation meeting, was held in Cannon's room. Such a gathering of Republicans and thick-skinned men as Colonel Hepburn, General Grosvenor of Ohio, Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania and others equally well known were present. The meeting was wholly unexpected because each one, following an impulse, dropped in on the speaker to talk about what they chose to characterize as the revelations of looseness and looseness in connection with the management of Panama. They were particularly angry over the disclosure that the canal commission maintained a press agent at a salary of $10,000 a year. This, they said, was an indefensible extravagance. They said many plain things to the speaker and it was their duty to place such things on record for the purpose of making future expenses for purposes as to make impossible attacks as were made upon the administration by Democrats the past year.

They talked about looseness in expenses for machinery and supplies, the employment of an army of retainers at extravagant salaries and the gross abuse of power on the part of somebody in foisting upon the commission men who capable of performing any adequate service for the salaries they received from the government.

Mr. Cannon tried to quiet the storm and soothe the spirits of the Republican leaders by assuring them everything would turn out all right, but he was not altogether successful. The speaker concluded by saying: "I have never yet failed to get the hands of a Republican, regardless of provocation, otherwise. But I want to say in this canal matter, in the light of the revelations to which I have referred for two days, I find it extremely hard to stand by President."

A feeling exhibited at the impromptu conference was reflected substantially in the proceedings of the party particularly when by a practically unanimous vote the amount of appropriation provided by the Hepburn bill was cut from $16,500,000 to $10,000,000.

Secretary Taft was informed of the action existing among the Republican members over the canal affair and evidently anticipating some unfortunate might happen before the pending bill was passed, hastened to the capitol, and remained in members' lobby until after the adjournment.

The secretary was much disturbed by the turn of affairs and hastened to see all of his friends among the members whom he met that there was apprehension on the part of representatives concerning the manner in which canal business was transacted. The bill passed with the amendment and will be taken up in the next week. There is no doubt that it will provoke more discussion in the body than in the house and that the members which were so severely attacked in the house will be denounced by Democratic senators.

This is the first evidence of friction in congress and the President has justified the prophecies of conservative men in Washington who kept in close touch with canal matters. They say there will be friction in future and ultimate action that will be injurious and dangerous to everybody concerned.

NO CHANGE IN THE SITUATION

Peasants Overrunning Estates In Many Regions of Russia, the Reactionaries Organize.

St. Petersburg, Thursday, Dec. 7.—Intelligence from Harbin, Manchuria, states that rebellious troops there killed many Russian officers and that reserve officers are not permitted to return home.

It is reported that General Maximovich, former governor general of Warsaw, will succeed the late Lieutenant General Sakharoff as the special representative of the emperor in the province of Saratoff.

The "union of all the Russian people," which has lately been formed of all the reactionary organizations, which participated in the landowners' congress at Moscow, is displaying great activity in founding branches to resist the revolution, and arming its members to fight the strikers. In St. Petersburg 3,000 persons have been enrolled, and the city has been divided into districts, each under a leader.

The result is sure to be street fighting in the event of a general strike. The union has drawn up an address to the emperor in favor of the maintenance of the autocracy, and imploring his majesty to grant only consultative functions to the national assembly and not to take the great step of abdicating the autocratic power.

In many regions of Russia the local authorities are practically unable any longer to protect the estates, both owing to the insufficiency of the troops and the temper of the soldiers. The military commanders have secretly notified the landlords that it is doubtful whether the troops will fire upon the peasants, and that if the soldiers are split into small detachments and sent to the country it is likely that they will make common cause with the peasants and murder their officers. The commander of the fortress at Brest has notified all the land owners in his jurisdiction that they must make such provisions as they can for their own protection.

The "employees in the empire" of the Singer Sewing Machine company, numbering 20,000, are forming a union with the object of securing better pay and shorter hours. The newly formed Amalgamated Workmen's association of Moscow now numbers 80,000.

REFORMS IN LEGISLATION

BY THE INCOMING SESSION OF
THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Governor Pattison Will Make His Policy Clear in His Inaugural Address.

Columbus, Dec. 9.—The following are a few legislative certainties destined to eventuate during the coming session of the general assembly:

Amend the municipal code so as to abolish boards of public service. Many other changes in the code are inevitable.

Repeal the inheritance tax.

Enact a law prohibiting the acceptance of railroad passes by persons holding public office and providing a penalty for violation of the statute.

In place of the present fee system for the remuneration of county officers enact a law providing for salaries and fees within certain limitations.

A feeling against continuing some of the cumbersome features of the municipal code has been rapidly growing. It was echoed at the meeting of mayors recently held in Cleveland on the call of Mayor Johnson and will find perhaps its first expression in a practical nature in a movement to abolish municipal boards of public service and perhaps public safety also. Under the old law and before the enactment of the Cox code these two important departments of every municipal government were each under the direction of one man. Now, it takes three men to do one man's work in the board of public service and two to do one man's work in the board of public safety, and in the former case three salaries are paid and in the latter two salaries, whereas one salary in each case would be amply sufficient. Experience has shown that this board system is not only extravagant and wasteful but that it creates friction and brings office-holding into disrepute. It is understood that Governor-elect Pattison is strongly opposed to the board system of government and that his administration will favor radical reforms in this regard.

A change in the taxation laws which would do away with the double taxation of mortgages was recommended. Chairman Drausin Wulsin of the committee on business corporation law reported that it had been decided to recommend that these laws be left alone by the incoming legislature. These reports were adopted. The board also declared against the raising of the age limit of child labor law.

An executive committee was named as follows: Oliver K. Brooks, Cleveland; Samuel Scovel, Cleveland; Nathaniel Hinchman Davis, Cincinnati; Harry P. Atkins, Cincinnati; E. M. Thresher, Dayton; Edward L. Buchwalter, Springfield; George W. Bright, Columbus, and J. W. Gill, Steubenville.

NEGRO STUDENTS

Fiercely Denounce the White Presi-

Washington, Dec. 9.—A revolt of between 300 and 400 male and female students occurred at Howard university, a negro institution of this city. The student body had assembled in the chapel for the usual religious services when the president of the university, Professor John Gordon, white, entered and was greeted with a volume of hisses, cat calls, howls and groans. A scene of excitement followed. The students then marched out of the chapel to the campus, where the demonstration was continued. Professor Gordon was still further denounced. The occasion of the demonstration against Professor Gordon was said to be due to his alleged prejudicial conduct toward members of the negro race.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 9.—William McWilliams, who pleaded guilty to the murder of his wife and five children a week ago, was sentenced to death at Independence. McWilliams' crime was one of the most shocking in the criminal history of the state. He dashed out the brains of his wife and the babe in her arms with a hammer, and, calling his other children to him one by one, murdered them in the same manner. The only reason he has given is "that they were better off out of the way." In pronouncing sentence Judge Platt wept.

Booth, Columbus; general counsel, Gilbert H. Stewart, Columbus; assistant general counsel, Francis B. James, Cincinnati; Samuel Scovel, chairman of the committee on taxation, read a report indorsing the constitutional amendment providing for classification of property for purpose of taxation. A change in the taxation laws which would do away with the double taxation of mortgages was recommended. Chairman Drausin Wulsin of the committee on business corporation law reported that it had been decided to recommend that these laws be left alone by the incoming legislature. These reports were adopted. The board also declared against the raising of the age limit of child labor law.

An executive committee was named as follows: Oliver K. Brooks, Cleveland; Samuel Scovel, Cleveland; Nathaniel Hinchman Davis, Cincinnati; Harry P. Atkins, Cincinnati; E. M. Thresher, Dayton; Edward L. Buchwalter, Springfield; George W. Bright, Columbus, and J. W. Gill, Steubenville.

Girl Falls Highwayman.

Chillicothe, O., Dec. 9.—Miss Ida Thomas, 17, a clerk in the department store of Daniel Cronin, frustrated the attempt of a robber to loot the store. Miss Thomas was alone in the store when a stranger entered and ordered her to open the safe. While he was looting the cash register she walked to the rear of the store and, procuring her employer's revolver, approached the thief and flashed the gun on him, whereupon the fellow dropped the money he had taken from the cash register and fled.

NEGRO STUDENTS

Fiercely Denounce the White President of Their College.

Washington, Dec. 9.—A revolt of between 300 and 400 male and female students occurred at Howard university, a negro institution of this city. The student body had assembled in the chapel for the usual religious services when the president of the university, Professor John Gordon, white, entered and was greeted with a volume of hisses, cat calls, howls and groans. A scene of excitement followed. The students then marched out of the chapel to the campus, where the demonstration was continued. Professor Gordon was still further denounced. The occasion of the demonstration against Professor Gordon was said to be due to his alleged prejudicial conduct toward members of the negro race.

MURDER OF FAMILY SENTENCED.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 9.—William McWilliams, who pleaded guilty to the murder of his wife and five children a week ago, was sentenced to death at Independence. McWilliams' crime was one of the most shocking in the criminal history of the state. He dashed out the brains of his wife and the babe in her arms with a hammer, and, calling his other children to him one by one, murdered them in the same manner. The only reason he has given is "that they were better off out of the way." In pronouncing sentence Judge Platt wept.

Hudson Memorial Bridge.

New York, Dec. 9.—A one-million dollar appropriation for a memorial bridge to honor Hudson, together with a pledge to expend a total of $2,000,000 on this structure, was made by the board of estimates and appropriation. The bridge will span Hudson Bay and will serve to connect the famous riverside drive to the northward.

posters but one are affected by a strike inaugurated by the Cincinnati billposters' union. The grievance of the strikers is that work had been given to a company from another city which the union declares does not employ union men.

Sawmill Burns.

Mansfield, O., Dec. 9.—The Henry Lutz sawmill, five miles south of Mansfield, was destroyed by fire, containing a loss of about $5,000. The cause will be investigated, as the fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

Struck a Barge.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 9.—The steamboat Lizzie Day, on her way to Madison, Ind., struck a coal barge near the Southern bridge here and was so badly damaged that it was necessary to ground her in five feet of water on the Kentucky shore. The dozen passengers on board at the time were safely landed. The loss is estimated at about $1,000.

CHILD LABOR

Receives Attention of Publicists.
Pertinent Remarks.

Washington, Dec. 9.—The second annual meeting of the national child labor committee began at the New Willard hotel. A number of well-known publicists interested in securing legislation governing child labor by the national and state governments are attending the meeting. John Graham Brooks of Cambridge, Mass., declared that to loose the child of 11 or 12 years from the discipline of the school and throw him into the industrial field wastes an enormous treasure of effective labor power and cruelly lessens the chances of the child to get what his own life and his own age should bring him. Mrs. Florence Kelly declared that England, Germany and France were far in advance of the United States in matters affecting the interests of the children, while the United States was on a par with Russia in that respect.

Bad Tens Afloat.

Washington, Dec. 9.—The secret service has announced the discovery of a new counterfeit $10 United States (Buffalo) note, series of 1901, Lyons register, Roberts treasurer. The appearance of the note is described as deceptive. In the portrait the left eye has a decided cast upward. There is also a period between the word "Washington" and "D. C." instead of a comma. There is no period after the "H" in the signature of the treasurer.

Physician Murdered.

New York, Dec. 9.—Dr. John Matheson, a physician, who was out on a professional call, was murdered in the Bronx section of this city. Dr. Matheson was shot from behind, the bullet entering the back of his head. The crime was committed under circumstances which lead the police to believe that robbery was the only motive of the assassin. The doctor's watch and money had been taken.

PROBLEM RAISED IN U. S. SENATE

OVER DEATH OF THE CONVICTED
SENATOR JOHN MITCHELL
IN OREGON.

Washington, Dec. 9.—After numerous conferences between prominent senators the point was raised as to whether the senate should be warranted in following the usual program in the case of Senator Mitchell. It was argued that at the time of his death he stood convicted of an offense under the federal laws and in violation of his oath as a senator of the United States. On the other hand, it was pointed out that the senate has not been notified officially of his conviction, and that judgment had been arrested by an appeal to the supreme court of the United States and that the highest court had not passed upon the question of his guilt or innocence. Vice President Fairbanks has not appointed the usual committee, and the impression prevails that he will postpone action until the senate convenes Monday.

Senator Mitchell was born in Pennsylvania in 1835, and graduated from Butler academy. He practiced law until 1860, when he went to California and later located at Portland, Ore. As a Republican he held a number of local offices, and in 1881 was elected to the United States senate, serving two terms. In 1890 he was returned to the senate. Senator Mitchell was under sentence to serve two years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $1,000 for conspiracy to obstruct the United States government of Oregon from the sale of public lands in Oregon and other states.

Sheriff Murdered.

Fernando, Fla., Dec. 9.—The body of Sheriff W. B. Johns of this county was found on the beach. All appearances lead to the belief that he was murdered. Sheriff Johns was a well-known man in the state and was a candidate for the state senate at the next election.

JEROME MAY BRING ACTION

Ryan of the Equitable Declines to Answer Questions.

HIS PROSECUTION ORDERED

Refused to State Whether Harriman,
the Railway Magnate, Made Threats
When Denied a Slice of Equitable
Stock—Review of the Day's Testimony Taken by the Committee.

New York, Dec. 9.—District Attorney Jerome has been ordered by the insurance investigating committee to institute proceedings against Thomas F. Ryan, owner of the majority of stock of the Equitable Life Assurance society. Mr. Ryan, while on witness stand, refused to answer when asked what E. H. Harriman, president of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific companies, had said to him when Mr. Harriman tried to induce him to share his control of the Equitable society with Mr. Harriman. Mr. Ryan was asked whether Mr. Harriman had threatened that results disastrous to Mr. Ryan's interest would ensue or if Mr. Harriman had told him that some action would be taken by the state legislature or any officers of the government unless Mr. Ryan consented to share his stock with him. Acting on the advice of his attorney, Paul D. Cravath, Mr. Ryan declined to answer those questions, although Senator William W.

THOMAS F. RYAN.

Armstrong, chairman of the committee, directed him to do so. Mr. Ryan, however, did answer one question by saying that Mr. Harriman did not tell him at that time there would be a legislative investigation of the life insurance business unless he gave up part of the Hyde stock.

In reply to questions bearing on this subject Mr. Ryan said the relations between Mr. Harriman and himself were quite strained for several days, and that the upshot of several interviews between the two men was that Mr. Ryan told Mr. Harriman that he intended to carry out his original plan regardless of what he or any one else might do. Mr. Harriman would have taken any part of the stock which he could have got, said Mr. Ryan. The witness again declined to answer when he was asked whether Mr. Harriman offered to put any share that he might get into the trust which was afterward created by Mr. Ryan. The latter said he secured control of the Equitable society by paying James H. Hyde $2,500,000 for 502 shares of the total 1,000 shares of the society. When asked why he paid nearly $5,000 a share for stock that paid only 7 per cent dividends, Mr. Ryan declared that he did it to avert what he feared would be the "most tremendous panic" if the Equitable society were forced into the hands of a receiver by the situation prevailing when he bought the stock.

Triple Murder and Suicide.

Shelburne, Ont., Dec. 9.—What may prove to be a triple murder and suicide was the discovery made by a farmer in the home of James Coulter, a well-to-do farmer, about 10 miles from here. Upon entering the house he found Coulter lying dead on the bed, while in other parts of the house were found the dead bodies of his wife and daughter, son, dying. Apparently the son was attacked first, with an ax, after which the father went into the house, shot his wife and daughter, retired to his bedroom and turned the weapon on himself.

Hanged For Assault.

Columbus, Dec. 9.—Henry Bates, a negro, was hanged here for having committed a murder as he sank upon Mrs. Fred Kuhlee, whose home he robbed. Both were badly beaten with a club, but recovered. The execution was the first in the state under the law enacted 10 years ago providing for the punishment of a murderer by hanging if he was found guilty of a capital offense.

Between Redmond and

INA SPEECH MADE AT OXFORD

STRIKING TRIBUTE IS PAID TO BALFOUR RETIRING PREMIER

Says England Has Passed Into Hands of Home Rulers and Little Englanders.

London, Dec. 9.—Joseph Chamberlain, speaking at Oxford, paid a striking tribute to Mr. Balfour, the retiring premier, who, he said, would leave a deep impression on the minds of his friends throughout the country. He asserted that nothing had arisen which in the slightest degree affected his personal or his political relations with Mr. Balfour. Referring to the new government, Mr. Chamberlain said the country had now passed into the hands of the home rulers and "little Englanders." Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, it was his opinion, intended to give Ireland home rule by instalments on the hire system. Mr. Chamberlain charged Sir Henry with having made a bargain with John Redmond along these lines. He asked what would be thought when a British premier took his orders from the enemies of his country and when he used his high position to undermine the constitution which he was there to support. Mr. Chamberlain then turned to finance matters, repeating his old arguments, and contending that the suggested tax on wheat would be practically insignificant and would be compensated for in other ways.

Kentucky Miners Enjoined.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 9.—Sensational allegations are contained in a petition for a restraining order which was granted against members of the United Mine Workers in Webster and Union counties, asked for by the Kentucky Coal company. The bill was filed in Owensboro and sent to this city in order that United States Judge Evans might take prompt action. Judge Evans granted the order, which shall be effective until the next term of court in Owensboro, in May, 1906. The defendants to the action are 18 members of the United Mine Workers, but not all residents of Kentucky. The complainants allege that the union miners have threatened to blow up the mines and assassinate the operators. They ask that the union miners be restrained from importing labor from Illinois or any other state to overpower the present workmen in the mines, or from establishing pickets about the mines, or in any way interfering with the operation of the complainants' interests.

SENSATIONAL

Accusation Made in the French
Chamber of Deputies.

Paris, Dec. 9.—Firmen Faure, Republican Nationalist, made the sensational accusation in the chamber of deputies that a private dispatch from Paul Cambon, the French ambassador at London, advising the government of Great Britain's readiness to make an accord with France against Germany to safeguard their common interests, was communicated to Germany the day after it was received here, although only President Loubet, the then foreign minister, M. Delcasse, and Premier Rouvier knew of its existence. The premier characterized M. Faure's assertion as gossip, whereupon the deputy responded that it was a question of high treason. At the request of the premier the discussion of M. Faure's interpolation went over until after the foreign budget has been considered.

Building Demolished.

Washington, Dec. 9.—An explosion at the Gas Light company, in southeast Washington, resulted in damages to the extent of $150,000. The double building housed the engine room, together with the machinery it contained, was completely demolished. The explosion occurred in the six-inch by-pass gas main. But three men were in the building at the time and none were seriously hurt.

Football Conference.

New York, Dec. 9.—The advocates of intercollegiate football won a victory at a conference of 15 colleges and universities in this city when an agreement was reached that the game should not be abolished, but should be reformed, was carried by a vote of 10 to 5.

A COMEDY of ACCIDENTS

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1905, by Huby Douglas

When the breeze is just strong enough to fill a sail without flattening and the sun discreet enough to brim the summer girl's cup of enjoyment to the verge of color and tan there is no place superior to the shore waters of Nantucket. If Blanche Wilnot and Tom Howard did not think so in stereotyped form as they tacked out from the hotel dock it was all in the vivacity of their eyes and voices and motions.

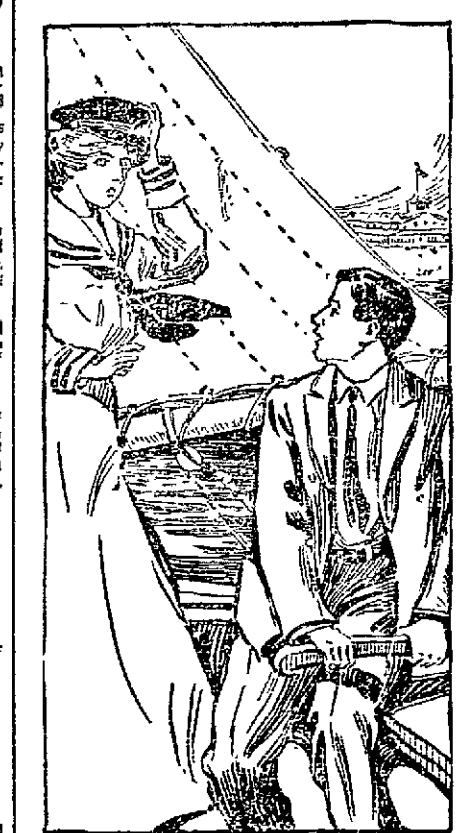

"Now, your trim the sail, while I do the rudder," cried Blanche, "and which is port and starboard, so I can call out, and what is down bridge? Susie Mills is forever telling me about their 'down bridges' when they go sailing, and she says it's such fun. And bailing out—can't we bail out, Mr. Howard? We only stay a month at Nantucket, and I want to learn it all so I can talk too."

"Mr. Howard!" scornfully. "I'm Tom and you're Blanche. Weren't we properly introduced at the breakfast table, not an hour ago, and didn't that Susie Mills of yours ever mention that Nantucket has no frills? No one can like 'down bridges' and preserve dignity."

"No," doubtfully. "Susie didn't speak of that—Tom, but what is it, and the rest?"

"Oh, that—that's the side one turns out when driving, I think, or maybe it's the other side. I'm not quite sure just now. But anyway we won't need it. They say that and starboard in battles, you know, when they're going on board with cutlasses. But look out!" sharply. "You will spring a leak sure if you run into rocks that way."

"Well, how could I help it," Blanche retorted, "with you chattering? I couldn't listen to you and trim the rudder—I mean do you rudder—at the same time. Sailors always look at the sky and things and meditate. Now, how shall we get off? The boat spins round like hobbyhorses turning on a pole. I'll bet folks are looking at us from the hotel and laughing."

"You—wretch! ARE YOU THOMAS DE FOLKSTONE HOWARD?"

Tom gazed into the water speculatively.

"I suppose I could get out and push off," he said suggestively. "It isn't over three or four feet deep. But I'd get awfully wet."

"Then you sit right there and hold on for your life!" cried Blanche witheringly as she sprang to her feet. "I'll jump overboard myself and push off. I'd just love to get wet. I—well," as Tom splashed into the water, "if you will do it. You're slow for emergencies, but I think you'll be susceptible to treatment. Now," as the boat was sidled off the rock, almost causing her to lose her balance, and Tom tumbled dripping on board, "suppose you trim—do the rudder awhile and let me trim sail. I want to learn it all."

"Crazy!" growled Tom as he edged by her to the cockpit and grasped the rudder. "I could have pushed off with an oar just as well and saved this wetting—if I'd thought. Luff a little, Blanche."

we're in for general congratulations when we get back." Tom growled, kicked the water from his shoes, then laughed. "Only a month, did you say, Blanche?" he asked. "That's all. And papa made a whole lot of trouble about that. He doesn't like the seashore a bit and only gave in when I promised to be a good girl and consider his wishes in the fall. You see, I'm escaping, and I wanted to get just as far away as possible in hope of making it permanent."

"Queer," quoth Tom. "I'm escaping too. Only mine's to be all summer. And I'm studying how to make the thing permanent."

Blanche looked interested. "What's your trouble," she asked—"a girl?"

"Yes. Money in two families. Got to be united. All cut and dried without consulting me."

"Why don't you jump overboard, as you did just now?"

"That's what I'm thinking of. But it means de-inheritance, and I've never earned a cent in my life. It's something that calls for mental struggle through silent watches of the night."

"Is the girl nice looking?"

"Never saw her. But how is it with you?"

"Just the same. Money, money, money, and I never saw the man either."

Tom leaned forward, his eyes shining.

"Look here, Blanche," he cried, "let's elope. That'll settle the whole thing for both of us."

"Why, Tom Howard!" in dismay. "We haven't known each other two hours yet."

"What of it?" boldly. "We both like the water, don't we? And we've got to do something."

"But get married, after two hours, and not know a thing about each other?"

"Well, tomorrow 'll make twenty-four hours more, and a month will be thirty whole days. And we'll be out every day boating and talking. Isn't that enough?"

Blanche drew a long breath. "I don't know," she answered doubtfully. "We'll see. But I wish the other Howard—mine, you know—had a little more of your brass. I wouldn't so much mind him then. But T. de Folkstone Howard! Puh! It makes me think of a dancing master."

Tom turned red and then purple, but the last was with laughter, held back.

"So the other fellow is a Howard too," he choked, "and T. de Folkstone? What a cad! But don't you suppose that might be the adolescence of college days, Blanche, to be outgrown? Why, I once heard of a girl who bled at Wellesley as B. Gladys Glorinda Wilnot. Don't you think that a name to run away from?"

"You—wretch! Are you Thomas de Folkstone Howard?"

"Guilty, with no extenuating circumstances."

Blanche stared, bit her lip, then sank weakly upon a thwart.

"Tom," she said faintly, "let's go in now, before anything more happens. I've had all I can stand today. Tomorrow we will start again."

Catherine's General.

The soldiers to whom Catherine was indebted for the glory of the Russian arms included Rumlantsof, the conqueror of Kagoul; the savage Kamienst, who would bite pieces of flesh out of his men at the maneuvers and who stripped his prisoners in 30 degrees of cold and dashed cold water over them until they were literally frozen; the Prince of Nassau-Siegen, who was beaten by Gustavus of Sweden at Svenskund; Joseph Ribas, upon whom was written the unusual epitaph that "by his own wits he became a good general, an excellent diplomat and even an honest man," and, most famous of all, Suvorof, or Suvarrow. This celebrated general, who figures inaccurately in Byron's "Don Juan," was never defeated in the field. He was short of stature, being only five feet four inches in height. Suvorof was idolized by his soldiers. He had implicit faith in his star, his conceit was unbounded, and he behaved sometimes like a raving lunatic. He would come out of his tent stark naked and turn somersaults on the grass. His other eccentricities were equally amazing. At times apparently humane and averse to the shedding of blood, on other occasions he sanctioned the most awful massacres. It was his deliberate conviction that there were only three great generals in the history of modern warfare—Turenne, Laudon and Suvorof.

Broken Gentility.

The cashier of a certain firm had ascended, and the staff of clerks were deciding on a fit and proper person to acquaint the head of the firm of the fact on his arrival.

Ultimately the matter was left in the hands of the head clerk, possibly because none of the others cared to undertake the responsibility.

There had been a dog fight in the street, and a small crowd was just dispersing as the chief's carriage dashed up.

"What's that crowd after, Jorkins?" demanded the head of the firm.

The chief clerk thought he recognized a chance of breaking the news gently and seized it.

The Grand Promoter And the Cobbler

Major Crofoot Organizes the U. C. R. C. For His "Old Friend" Wasserman.

[Copyright, 1905, by McClure, Phillips & Co.] MAJOR CROFOOT, grand promoter and general organizer and debt-shirker, was a little late in reaching the office. He had mounted the stairs in his usual cautious way and decided that the coast was clear when he got a surprise. The cobbler to whom he had been owing $2 for two or three years was not only waiting at the door, but his state of mind was such that he saluted the major with:

"By golly, but I believe you vhas run away and don't neffer come back no more. I come by dis office more ash feefty times, but I don't find you. I ask about you, and eafybody says you vhas a rascal and don't pay your debts. I don't know how she vhas dot I find you dis time."

"Can this be my dear old friend Wasserman?" exclaimed the major in reply

"BUT YOU PAY ME OR I MAKE A ROW," SAID THE COBBLER

as he extended his hand. "Good lands, but where have you been for the last year?"

"I have been hunting for you," was the brief reply. "You owe me $2, and I have run my legs almost off to get dot money. If you vhas in your office when I knock on der door you don't open him. If you see me on der street, you run away. I wait for you here dis morning, and we shall settle up or haf some fights."

"Fights? Fights? My dear Mr. Wasserman, don't get excited. Come right into my office and we'll talk it over. I've had a check lying in my desk for the last six months for you. I'm sorry it isn't $200 instead of $2, as you are one of my old friends."

"I don't want some talks mit you," said the cobbler as he refused a chair. "I'll take my $2 and go right away. When I find a man who vhas some leadbeats I don't do some more bizzness mit him."

"Don't you call me that, my friend. It pains me to hear such expressions from you."

"But you pay me or I make a row," "I hope and trust you won't," gently replied the promoter as he backed up to the rusty coal stove to get cold.

"In the old days when I was hard up and had few friends you did some work for me and did not demand the ready cash. In fact, you trusted in my honor, reposed confidence in my financial integrity. It is one of the things I love to remember."

"You said you would pay me in two days," persisted the cobbler as his bristles continued to stand up.

"If I did the fact has slipped my mind. It is only a trifling detail, however. Mr. Wasserman, I suppose you have heard of the great changes in my financial condition? You have not congratulated me, but you will as soon as your excitement is past."

"I told you I don't want some talk," replied the cobbler as he began to doubt himself. "If you vhas a rich man now you can pay your old debts."

"This true, my old friend; 'tis true. I can pay a thousand dollars for every cent I owe, and the feeling is a placid one. You come up here to collect the old account of $2?"

"And I vwant him right away, quick! If you don't pay me, look out! I vhas a bad man if I vhas cheated. One time a feller beat me out of 10 cents, and I almost kill him."

"To collect an old account of $2," mused the major, "and you had no suspicion of the good luck awaiting you. My old friend, don't have a fit or faint when I inform you of the fact that you have been appointed treasurer of the Universal Goat Raising company, which has just been incorporated, with a capital of $5,000,000. The appointment was made last evening, and I was delegated to inform you that your salary would be $20,000 per year. Let us congratulate each other. Mr. Wasserman, I am the president of the corporation, of course, and you being the treasurer, we will run things to suit ourselves. You can take off your hat and apron and go to work at once, or I can give you two or three days in which to dispose of your business and get a swallowtail coat."

"I want no talk. I want no goats," exclaimed the cobbler as he ran around the room. "If you don't pay me dot $2 we shall have some rows."

"Gently, Mr. Wasserman. It acts this way sometimes, but the excitement will pass off. Yes, you are treasurer of the U. C. R. C., and I will explain to you that the idea is to buy 2,000,000 goats at a dollar apiece, ship them to the great prairies of the west, and in a year or two they will sell again at 100 per cent profit. We don't want to sell, however. We propose to supply the world with goats' milk. It has been discovered that a pint of goat's milk per day contains more nourishment than five pounds of meat, four pounds of flour or half a bushel of potatoes. The average man can do a full day's work on a pint. Give him a quart, and he'll work all night as well. It further has been discovered that goat's milk is an almost certain cure for consumption, asthma, liver complaint."

"Will you pay me dot $2?" Interrupted the cobbler as he reached out for the major's coat collar.

"Gently, my old friend," was the reply in a soothing voice. "I owe you $2. It should have been paid long ago. It will be paid in about two minutes. As you are to become treasurer of the U. C. R. C., I feel it my duty to post you as to the aims and ambitions. The milk will be put up in fancy bottles, sterilized to preserve it indefinitely. Our first testimonial is from a leading actress and will astonish all consumptives. She says—"

"I don't care what she says. For der last time, I ask you if you vball pay?"

"I will," suavely replied the major. "There is $2 coming to you for repairing my shoes. As treasurer of the U. C. R. C., you should file a bond of at least $50,000. It might give you some trouble to do so, and as you are an old friend of mine I propose to extend the glad hand. In other words, I will reduce the bond to the trifling sum of $2, and that squares the debt. Do you think you'll have time to hunt up a suit of office rooms this afternoon? You had better come in and let me go over to the bank with you, anyhow. Hereafter you will pay by check, you know. It will also be well for you to get some new clothes as soon as you can. I think this is about all—I think so."

"And where vhas my $2?" demanded the cobbler as a lump gathered in his throat. "You say you pay me my money, but where vhas she? You talk and talk, but you don't pay."

"Mr. Wasserman, you are a hard man to deal with. I have told you that we shall raise goats."

"But I don't chre about goats." "Goats of both sexes." "But I vwant money." "Goats of all colors." "Dunder and blitzen!"

"You have no antipathy against goats of old gold color, have you? We must not start out prejudiced as to color, you know."

"By golly, but what a man—that a dodger! I don't believe he gives me any money!"

"And if you think of it," continued the major as he stepped on the cobbler's toes and began to crowd him out of the room, "you might inquire around and see if you can ascertain if there are any long tailed goats to be had in Wales. What, going? Well, goodbye until tomorrow, and try to get in early, and—"

The cobbler was out and the door locked against him. After gasping away for two or three minutes he said to himself:

"The! The! By golly, but I vhas glad I got out und haf feefty cents in my pocket!" M. QUAD.

A Practical Definition.

"I say, old fellow, what's a garage?" "It's a place where a fool who thinks he can drive a motor car as well as anybody is parted from his money and where they take automobiles for repair that haven't enough horse sense to keep to the middle of the road."—Baltimore American.

Sure of Himself.

"I'll give you a position as clerk to start with," said the merchant, "and pay you what you are worth. Is that satisfactory?"

"Oh, perfectly," replied the college graduate, "but—er—do you think the firm can afford it?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Reason.

Feminine Snapshots

Proud Man Is to Be Vanquished at Last.

Still the merry war goes on over facing the masculine sex up in stays. A prominent woman "demonstrator" for a corset manufacturing house started it by declaring woman's alleged superior had become so unconquered and bulging of figure that he would just have to go into corsets if he had any regard at all for his manly beauty.

The idea seemed to "take" like an infantile ailment. And hail the masculine stays! Here is the means whereby woman at last may subjugate proud man. Clap him into corsets and lace him up with a good squeeze when he seems obstreperous, and he will straightway become meek as a lamb. He cannot stoop over, he cannot throw a stone, cannot run, yell, raise his arms, roar cheers at a political meeting or even draw a deep breath. Happily, most happily for the woman sex, the idea of corseting man is spreading. Once let it prevail generally and the doom of man is sealed. Once gather him into laced up sideboards, all is over with him! Just now, when the woman sex is taking off its stays, only get man into them and his claims to superiority will melt away like a box of chocolates before sweet sixteen.

When a plump statesman pompously promulgates pronouncements against woman suffrage it will be recognized that he is merely a case for the corset maker. When a bad husband mistreats his family sentence him to the corset. Lace it around the bedpost at that. In less than no time the now thoroughly conquered masculine person will be crying for mercy. Women, my sisters, rouse yourselves! Victory is near! By all means, foul or fair, get man into stays. Work on his vanity, which is his blind side. Tell him of the Apollo-like beauty his noble form will take on when he takes on stays. Get him safely and fast into them and he will be subjugated for all time. Your triumph will be sure.

A brave and capable young woman is that Mrs. P. B. Moses of Piedmont, Va., who won her father's election to the legislature. This is how it was: J. E. Taylor, her father, was taken very ill at the beginning of the campaign and could not electioneer for himself. His daughter rode on horseback all through the mountainous region in which his constituents lived and made a house to house canvass for him. She enlisted the sympathy of the voters to such a degree that, though ill in bed, Mr. Taylor ran ahead of his ticket. This is said to be the first time a Virginia woman has ever made a personal political canvass.

Have you read of the trouble that sweet voiced singer, Mme. Schumann-Heineck, is in? She had by her first marriage a large family of children whom she left in Germany while she was over here earning money to support them. She not only supported them, but accumulated a considerable fortune, also invested, unfortunately for her, in Germany. After the death of her first husband, Mme. Schumann-Heineck married Mr. Rapp, an American citizen. Then she desired to bring her children here and likewise to dispose of her German property and make her home in America, but German law stepped in and forbade her to do either. Her children included several boys, the elder ones in their early teens. The government of Germany demanded that they should stay there and do military duty. Again, under German law, if a widow should marry the courts take entire charge of her property, even though she has earned it every cent herself, and she is also deprived of all control of her children. And still American women jump at the chance of marrying a German with a title and going to live with him in his own country.

When an American mother's own ideas as to plain, common honesty are undeveloped, is it any wonder if among American public men are found thieves? During the recent political campaign a workingman received the offer of a heavy bribe if he would vote a certain ticket. He told his wife about it. She advised him to take the money and then vote another ticket. The couple have several children that are being reared by this woman who displayed such low animal cunning. What kind of manhood and womanhood can the children of such a mother attain?

An enterprising girl in New York established in the busy downtown quarter of the city a day club and restaurant for the stenographers employed there. Now 1,000 girls patrolize her restaurant, and she is making out exceedingly well financially. Business women very generally prefer restaurants for their own sex exclusively, it has been found.

Make the best of everything, not the worst.

Judge Rose of Alton, Ill., has decided that a wife may pick her husband's pocket to get money for household expenses and that this is not stealing. Just so. But what kind of a husband is it that forces his wife to the humiliating experience of going through his pockets when he is asleep in order to get money to buy food for his children?

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

Prompt, Easy Recovery.

The greatest thing in the world — A Mother's Love: the love she lavishes on her children; the love her child should have for her; without this love she could not endure the agonies incident to childbirth; appreciative of this love, Mother's Friend was devised to lessen the pain and anguish of childbirth, that her love might not be strained to the breaking point. Mother's Friend does all this and more—it enables the fond mother to speedily recuperate from the labors of maternity, enables her to regain her lost strength, preserves her youthful lines of beauty, and makes pregnancy her crowning joy without any thorns to mar it.

Mother's Friend

Is applied externally, is most harmless in its constituency, most happy in its results, and is of such merit that no case of labor should be conducted without its use. It is a liniment for massage of the abdomen, muscles during pregnancy, and by its use their tonicity and power of contraction is greatly enhanced, enabling them to sustain the great strain brought to bear on them at this time. It is Mother's Friend. The name should be enough to recommend it to all who expect to be mothers.

AMUSEMENTS

MY WIFE'S FAMILY.
"My Wife's Family," a musical farce comedy, will be the offering at the Auditorium this evening.

DON & BEAMISH, IN "MY WIFE'S FAMILY."

DESERTED AT ALTAR.
Every time this line is heard in Pierce Kingsley's great American play, "Deserted at the Altar," it is the signal for a scream from the audience. Jasper Daubs, traveling in the guise of a soap agent, but who is in reality a government secret service man, uses the phrase and every where he appears a mass of stickers are strewn, be it on the scenery or on the characters in the play. So the line has become quite a phrase among the people who go to see the play. Fred Blackintosh, manager for Mr. Kingsley, has spared no pains to make this the strongest company ever seen in the play. It will appear at the Auditorium Monday evening.

THE WIZARD OF OZ.
The most unique, laughable and consistent new stage character that has been presented to the American public in a score of years is the scarecrow of "The Wizard of Oz" to be seen here December 13. This char-

ROSE COGHAN.
Miss Rose Coghlan is extremely lucky in having found a good, new play, and equally fortunate in having in her support three players of fine and contrasting qualities. Of course, it may be said in this regard that they are set in a favorable light by the dramatist in the farcical romance entitled "The Duke of Killierankie." Mr. Robert Marshall has given every in "The Duke of Killierankie." member of the cast an inimitable role and it would be strange indeed if they did not earn appreciation. In "The Duke of Killierankie," Miss Rose Coghlan as Mrs. Mulholland has made one of the emphatic hits of her brilliant and successful career.

THE LITTLE HOMESTEAD.
Critics have pronounced "The Little Homestead" one of the cleverest of modern dramas, not that it has departed into the realms of fancy, but on the contrary because it hews its line close to everyday life. "The Little Homestead" comes to the Auditorium soon.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.
Tim Murphy will soon be seen in Newark in "A Corner in Coffee." Creston Clarke in his big success of last season, "Beaucaire," a comedy romance by Booth Tarkington, will be here soon.

One of the good things coming this month is "The Heir to the Hoarrah," brew women taking part, descriptive of the day preceding the birth of Christ; an Annunciation scene; Shepherds out in the field, with their song of praise; the coming of the Magi and young people representing the nations of the earth who came in fulfillment of the prophecy, "A little child shall lead them." The recitations are from the masters, and the music, different from any year heretofore, will be old carols from the English, German and Swedish.

The latest report in local musical circles is to the effect that Mr. Frank Reynolds, the talented son of the late Charles Reynolds, for so long organist at Trinity church, will leave soon for Chicago, where he will begin an extended study of music, with some of the best organists. Young Mr. Reynolds who has been studying piano and organ for some time, possesses great musical possibilities and expects to complete his study in Europe after finishing in Chicago.

Miss Freda Pfeffer, choir leader of the Fifth street Baptist church, announces the following anthems for Sunday, December 11: Bennett's "God is a Spirit," will be sung at the morning service, and "O Light! O Love! O Spirit!" by Piusini, will be used at night. An attractive Christmas program is to be used at this church, which will appear later.

Merely a Choice of Evils.
"Why do you ask that woman's youngest child to recite?"
"Because," answered Miss Cayenne "it was the only way to keep the eldest child from playing the piano."—Washington Star.

Dying of Famine.
Is, in its torments, like dying of consumption. The progress of consumption, from the beginning to the very end, is a long torture, both to victim and friends. "When I had consumption in its first stage," writes Wm. Myers, of Cearfoss, Md., "after trying different medicines and a good doctor, in vain, I at last took Dr. King's New Discovery, which quickly and perfectly cured me." Prompt relief and sure cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, etc. Positively prevents pneumonia. Guaranteed at Hall's Drug Store, price 50c and $1 a bottle. Trial bottle free.

A FATAL MISTAKE.
Is Often Made by the Wisest of Newark People.
It's a fatal mistake to neglect backache. Backache is the first symptoms of kidney ills. Serious complications follow. Doan's Kidney Pills cure them promptly. Don't delay until too late. Until it becomes diabetes—Bright's disease.

Read what a Newark citizen says: Charles W. Cooper, employed at Geo. Hermann's clothing store, and living at 223 Hoover St., Newark, O., says: "Backache distressed me continually for a long time. There was a dull aching in the loins and my back was very weak. Besides this I had trouble with the kidney secretions, which were irregular and disturbed my sleep at night. I was usually just as tired in the morning as when I went to bed. Nothing I could get seemed to help any until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Crayton's drug store. I had heard a great deal about the wonderful action of this remedy on the kidneys and bladder, but I was greatly surprised by the quick effect in my case. I improved rapidly under the treatment until the pain in the back ceased and the action of the kidneys became natural. A few boxes made a complete cure."

Columbus, Dec. 9.—The old Trinity House, Broad and Lazelle streets, has been sold by the trustees and warden for $75,000 to J. M. Huge Task.
It was a huge task, to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed by Hall, the druggist; price 50c."

Modern Woodmen of America does many good things for its members while they are still alive. Eustace J. Lancaster made application for membership in Camp 11912 located at Washington, D. C. In his application for membership he stated that his mother died in Stafford county, Virginia, in 1898, but he did not know what caused her death. The Supreme Medical Directors at once started an investigation to ascertain cause of death and after considerable correspondence learned that the mother was still living. In explanation of the mistake, Mr. Lancaster wrote: "During the Spanish war I served in one of the volunteer regiments and after returning to the United States was informed that my mother had died, and it seems she had been informed that I was dead, but it was my brother who was killed in the destruction of the battleship Maine." Mr. Lancaster believed he was the sole survivor of his family and his mother thought she was left a childless widow. It need not be said that there was joy in two hearts when both mother and son learned that the other was living.

HOSPITAL DONATION

The ladies of the Newark City Hospital desire to express publicly their thanks for the many generous gifts received by them on donation day. These gifts are all the more appreciated from the fact that the Hospital is constantly full to overflowing and many of the patients are unable to pay. For these reasons the expenses are greater than ever before. While the ladies have one day set apart especially for donations, please remember that gifts are acceptable any day of the year.

Better Than Spanking.
Spanking does not cure children of urine difficulties. If it did there would be few children that would do it. There is a constitutional cause for this. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 418, Notre Dame, Ind., will send her home treatment to any mother. She asks no money. Write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child. The chances are it can't help it.
